PROOF OF PERFORMANCE

Summarily

2010 – Currently

Due to the high number of extensive certificates, we are now one of the market leaders in the IT sector.

In order to better understand our main competences, we will briefly outline the services in which we currently have our core competences.

1. MICROSOFT

Microsoft certifications cover all areas of modern information technology - from the Office user to the IT administrator to the developer. We have specialized in the following product range from Microsoft and are also certified accordingly.

1.1 Microsoft Dynamics

The decisive advantage is transparency. All customer information is stored in one place. The course and status of the business relationship are clearly visible. In addition, there are efficient communication functions that facilitate customer contact and increase customer satisfaction. CRM software relieves employees in several ways: no double entries, no research effort, no inconsistent data. In this way, they can better respond to the wishes and needs of customers. The result: higher customer satisfaction and long-term increase in sales.

1.2 MICROSOFT OFFICE 365

Microsoft Office 365 is your mobile office. No matter where you are, Office 365 can be conveniently accessed from your smartphone, tablet and PC at any time.

The latest version of MS Office 365 presents itself to its users in a user-friendly Microsoft look. The most important innovation in usability is the intuitive operation of the software. The cloud-based solution provides the latest versions of Office, Visio, Project, Yammer, Exchange, Skype for Business (Lync), Sharepoint, and Power BI. Regardless of the platform, Office can be used equally on both the Mac and the PC and is also available for mobile solutions such as smartphones and tablets.

Also offline you have the possibility to edit your documents and can retrieve all important files and information. Office 365 becomes particularly interesting in combination with the use of Microsoft Dynamics 365. This unique combination enables even better interaction with customers and allows marketing, sales and service to grow much closer together. The exchange of relevant data, the joint editing of files and the linking of important documents to the customer become child's play. Integration of Active Directory is also possible.

Other advantages of Office 365 are, of course, the low maintenance costs and the timeliness. Important time and cost factors that Microsoft takes away from you with this solution.

2. MAGENTO

With inquiries of potential new customers regarding a Magento shop, we notice again and again that it is not easy for the customers to choose the right Magento agency. Of course, advice, service and costs count, but the quality of the work can usually only be assessed by the customer after some time. At the latest when the first update is to be made or complex modules have to be developed, it becomes clear whether the developers really understand Magento and use it correctly or whether modules have been purchased and technical adjustments have been implemented in a problematic way.

Certified developer ensures quality at Magento shop implementation In order to support our customers in their decision-making, we have dealt with the possibilities of proving our know-how and the quality of our developments. In our opinion , the Developer Certificate offered by Magento (Magento Certified Developer, Magento Certified Developer Plus, Magento Certified Front End Developer - Certified Magento Developer) has proven to be the most meaningful certificate in this area. The official developer certification by Magento checks actual knowledge and thus ensures that the certified developer is very familiar with the Magento system and works according to the best standards

Importance of Magento developer certification for you as a customer For you as a customer, the certification means that we program for you according to the current Magento standards and that we have dealt with many details of the system. This makes it possible to quickly identify the best method for new requirements and implement them efficiently. For you, this results in higher code quality as well as time savings during implementation and, of course, lower costs in the end. In the longer term, higher quality pays off additionally, because it reduces costs due to lower efforts, e.B. for updates of the shop version.
